

Contact

Space becomes place as a consequence of dwelling, thus its topological boundary is inherently man-made and the boundary between is a created contact.

Contact between one age and another...

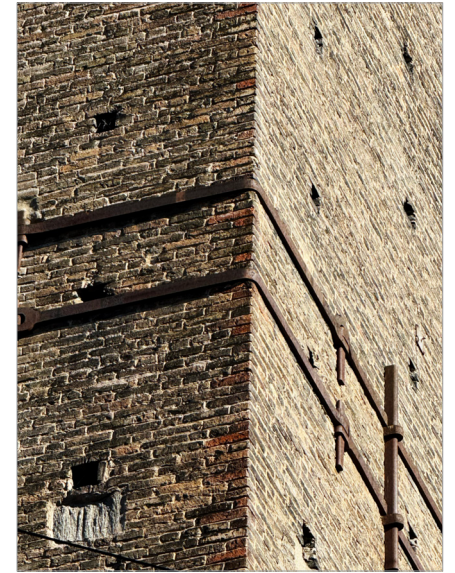

Contact between us and nature...

Contact between one axis and another...

Contact between object and hand...

Contact between material and entropy...

And contact between what's yours and what's mine.